Tom,

Just in case I go into labor early, I'm attaching the few OTP fairness doctrine files that I have stored on my computer. I do not have copies of all the relevant OTP fairness doctrine files, but presumably I'll be able to gather all of those for you Monday morning. I'm just sending these as a precaution. If I go into labor this weekend, we can talk next week about how to get you the remaining relevant documents before the speech.

Attached, please find:

- (1) Jan. 18, 1972 -- a CTW Memo to Flanigan saying that CTW's upcoming testimony before the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights would be a good time for him to present OTP's position on Fairness Doctrine
- (2) March 5, 1972 -- a Washington Post article -- Nixon's Top Radio-TV Adviser Would Drop Fairness Doctrine -- which appears to be based on interview CTW gave the Post, not a speech
- (3) July 1974 -- a CTW Yale Law Journal review titled "Media Chic" proposing that legislation requiring broadcasters to accept all paid announcements during commercial time w/o discrimination as to speaker or subject matter
- (4) A PDF file containing three documents:
 - (A) May 3, 1972 -- a CTW Memo to Flanigan explaining what OTP's position on Fairness Doctrine should be
 - (B) an undated news summary w/ a handwritten note from Pete Flannigan asking CTW to explain why he was speaking out on Fairness Doctrine
 - (C) [IRRELEVANT] an article titled "Media Report/White House Static" that does not discuss the Fairness Doctrine
